Description

The template should include stubs of a plugin Django app and all required Models, Serializers, ViewSets, etc. The template should be heavily commented for new developers. It should also install the entry point for the Django app.

Additionally, it should have a rename utility similar to what The Foreman does here.

The template should also contain a documentation template that includes the sections listed on the proposed doc structure etherpad [0]

This should live in a new git repo, pulp/plugin_template

- Description updated

We need to decide on the repo name. What about: plugin_template ?

#4 - 06/29/2017 06:08 PM - bmbouter

The name plugin_template is already in the description and it's already groomed. I think it's good to go.
