Triaged:	Yes

Description

Pulp is requesting: /pulp/python/web/pypi/pypi/falcon/json/
The actual file is /pulp/python/web/pypi/pypi/falcon/json/index.json
The documentation should reflect the need to update the httpd DirectoryIndex directive to support this behavior or attempt to retrieve index.json by name.

I'm surprised you hit this. I assumed that the DirectoryIndex should be correct from the install.

I agree that this should be documented.

Ah, I think the problem was coming from the pulp_python 1.x tree the pulp_python.conf did not have that setting.. Just a small documentation fix

I guess this is a byproduct of me installing from source directly (no 2.x RPM for pulp 2.11 on RHEL 6), as the RPM would've replaced the file properly.

mikea, should we close this as NOTABUG or would you like some docs updated in some way. Would you be able to send us a PR with the docs changes?

#4 - 07/13/2017 07:36 PM - mikea

- Status changed from NEW to CLOSED - NOTABUG

- Assignee set to mikea

Will submit a documentation update shortly.
