Description

As a result of this story the user will be able to:

- 1) Publish a Maven repository with an archetype-catalog.xml at the root of it.
- 2) Create a distribution that makes the publication available at `http://pulphostname/content/<some-relative-path>`
- 3) Define the new repository in the pom.xml of a project
- 4) Build the project and observe that all dependencies that were supposed to come from Pulp actually come from Pulp.
