Description

Publishers aren't used much in the pulp_file plugin. The only thing they store is a name for manifest<sup>0</sup>. I don't think most users will use this field so it basically just adds an extra step to most people's workflow. We could make manifest name an option on publish and remove publishers from pulp_file.

There is one issue that QE raised: if we remove publishers from pulp_file then no plugins will be using publishers and there'll be no way to test them functionally (ie with pulp-smash).
