Description

/usr/lib/pulp/plugins/types/deb.json is apparently a legacy way for pulp plugins to declare their unit keys.

The existence of this file causes a different mechanism for index creation to be used during db migrations.

This mechanism is incompatible with pulp_deb migration 0004.

Both testing and discussions with other developers suggest that this file is no longer needed and can simply be removed. (I am not aware of any plugins besides pulp_deb still packaging this file).

To stop this file from being packaged will require both a change in pulp_deb and in pulp-packaging repositories.

I will add PRs referencing this issue against both repositories soon.

Revision 4492d2fd - 06/11/2019 01:17 PM - quba42

Remove /usr/lib/pulp/plugins/types/deb.json from pulp-deb

This file is a legacy way to provide plugin type definitions and is no longer needed. The presence of this file will break reindex migrations.

Revision 37b8f9f3 - 06/24/2019 04:45 PM - quba42

Remove /usr/lib/pulp/plugins/types/deb.json from setup.py

This legacy file will prevent migration 0004 from working.

WARNING: This will also require removing the file from the .spec file in pulp-packaging repository!
