Description

As a user, i can signal the export of some repository version to a file, and have that file saved to disk.

As a user, i can export some repository version, but only include the 'diff' of what is different from some other repository version (to get an incremental export)

As a user, I can upload a full export and have its contents be added to an existing repository produce a new repository version.

As a user, i can upload an incremental export and specify a repository version to base it on
