Description

Description of problem:

This command will not print anything:

```
$ pulp-admin rpm repo content errata --repo-id rhel-6-server --match Type=security --fields pkglist
```

Neither will this command:

```
pulp-admin rpm repo content errata --repo-id=rhel-6-server --fields=pgklist --filters='{"issued": {"$gte": "2014-01-01"},"type": "security"}
```

However, this command will print the pkglist:

```
pulp-admin rpm repo content errata --repo-id rhel-6-server --erratum-id RHSA-2014:1075 --fields pkglist
```

Both commands should print the pkglist.

Version-Release number of selected component (if applicable):
2.4.0-1

How reproducible:
Every time.

Steps to Reproduce:

1. Sync the rhel-6-server repository.
2. Run `pulp-admin rpm repo content errata --repo-id rhel-6-server --match Type=security --fields pkglist`
3. Also run `pulp-admin rpm repo content errata --repo-id=rhel-6-server --fields=pgklist --filters='{"issued": {"$gte": "2014-01-01"},"type": "security"}`

Actual results:
Observe that these commands do not print the pkglist.

Expected results:
The pkglists should be printed for each errata that match a query.
