Description

Recently I needed to do some testing with puppet content, and it was hard. Puppet forge sync's can't be published because duplicate names. Also some of the content could be corrupt and unpredictable in other ways. It may be useful to have a repo like 'zoo' only for puppet content.

It would also be good if these fake puppet modules contained symlinks as puppet content can have.

This would also be valuable for testing, and could be added to the docs for a more consistent (and quicker) demo of puppet functionality than puppetforge.
