Add a long_description to the python package

fixes #6882 https://pulp.plan.io/issues/6882

The motivation was to provide a "project description" on pypi.org. This necessitated another rework of the README.md file to make it usable for arbitrary locations. There was some minor cleanup of setup.py as informed by pulpcore and pulp_rpm.

Suggested description (a modified version of the GitHub README file):

A Pulp plugin to host APT repositories.

For more information, please visit the Pulp project home page, or see the plugin documentation. The Git repository used to build this package may be found on GitHub. If you want to report a bug, see the issue tracker.

Apparently the way to achieve this is to add a long_description to setup.py (see pulpcore as an example).
